10	642	RUFF	$8.00	7	56.5	T R MARTIN	LOUISE DAY

Race Analysis: Reet Petite was run of the race on debut and did have market support prior to the jump. Short here but deservedly so. Dhyani went under as favourite at Cootamundra but those figures stack up nicely in this field which lacks depth.

Race2

11	97	CURSED	-	3	55.0	RICHARD BUTLER	JORDAN MALLYON
12	9475	MANDALONG STARZ	-	10	55.0	GARY NICKSON	MICHAEL HEAGNEY

Race Analysis: Coto De Caza is the obvious favourite. Finishing quickly off a slow tempo last time and looks ready for this trip now as he drops back to country level. Plenty of interest in the locally-trained Booshang though. Was finishing fastest last start over the mile and can go to another level now.

16	x322	JAEX	-	2	56.0	STEPHEN O'HALLORAN	DANNY BEASLEY

Race Analysis: A very even maiden and the market has it spot on. Give It A Nudge makes her way down from Sydney and Collett strikes at 22% when riding for Neasham. Form from last prep is much better than what she's up against today. Stablemate Diablo Bolt has form around Group performers at his last start prior to the spell and his recent trial suggests he'll run well fresh.

Race Analysis: Another even race. Mooshaka won well first-up at Queanbeyan and his record suggests he goes even better with a run under his belt. Can go on with the fresh victory. Lunar Solar was plain at Benalla but did race wide throughout. Softer draw this time in easier grade can see her bounce back. Light Press exploded during the Acton season and those figures would have her in the finish.

13	3227	OWL WITNESS	-	8	55.0	R & L PRICE	JEAN VAN OVERMEIRE

Race Analysis: Heading back to the well with Missile Seeker. Didn't really get a chance last start and looks to have more in his favour this time around. Like the fact he's drawn away from the inside this time and would only have to get back to what he did two starts ago to be winning. Add Milk is looking for the hat-trick and was finishing fast at Cootamundra last start, but Missile Seeker already rates higher than her and still looks to have plenty of upside. Nullify can't be ruled out coming back to country level.

11	x121	VELLA MAGIC	-	2	55.0	GRATZ VELLA	DAMON BUDLER
12	0x77	FEEL THE KNIGHT	-	1	55.0	ANTHONY WARREN	ANDREW ADKINS

Race Analysis: Hard to find an angle in this. Kelvedon Road was great running over the top first-up from a long spell and gave the indication stepping out in trip won't be an issue. Around his best first-up after a year off and has the platform now to get back to somewhere near his best. Fangela and Tulla Park are now 1-1 in their head-to-head duel and can't be separated by a whole lot. Big Day Out won in quick time at Leeton and must be respected.

10	03x1	STRATUM PRIDE	-	7	57.0	KEITH DRYDEN	JACK MARTIN
11	02x7	LUMBER DREAM	-	8	55.0	RODGER WATERS	MATTHEW CAHILL

Race Analysis: The feature of the day and the market again has it about right. Cliff House looks as though he's ready to take the next step and comes through a strong form race at Bathurst. Improved with every run last campaign and looks to get plenty of favours here. Offspring was disappointing LS but happy to forgive one run. Has always promised to be better and gets her chance now. Spitfire was superb in town LS after back-to-back wins. That effort stacks up well in this event and he's in with a big chance.

Race Analysis: Lyrical Beauty wouldn't have to do anything different to what she did first-up to be winning this. Easy bet to have as she looks to work through her grades for the Kosciuszko-winning stable. Can entertain Breakaway Week at a price. Good win against the bias here fresh and was finishing the fastest in a slowly run race last start. She's come back a different horse this preparation and ratings look to be trending the right way. Watch for her flashing late.
